

Department of Media, Journalism, and Film
Cathy Hughes School of Communications
Howard University
Washington, D.C.

Tenure Track Assistant Professor in Film/Television Production

Description: The Department of Media, Journalism, and Film in the Cathy Hughes School of Communications at Howard University invites applications for a faculty position in Film/Television Production. The successful candidate will teach introductory, intermediate, and graduate courses in film and television production, conduct academic research and/or creative productions in film and/or television, serve on various departmental, school-wide, and university-wide committees as assigned, and provide service to the national and/or international communications community.

This full-time, tenure-track position at the level of Assistant Professor begins August 2017.

Minimum Qualifications:

- MFA or its equivalent in film, television, or a related field is required
- Experience and expertise in cinematography
- Experience and expertise in multi-camera studio production

Preferred Qualifications

Priority will be given to candidates with:

- Both college-level teaching experience and experience working professionally in the film/TV industry
- A research or production specialization in topics pertaining to film/TV and African-Americans, Africans, Diasporic communities, and/or other People of Color
- Professional qualifications in multiple specialized areas of film and television production (such as directing, cinematography/videography, studio lighting, etc.)

How to Apply:

Interested candidates should submit:

- Cover Letter
- Curriculum Vitae
- Portfolio (sent as URL to samples of relevant creative work)
- Three letters of reference from academic or professional referees

Please submit these materials electronically to:

Dr. Michael Austin
Search Committee Chair
Department of Media, Journalism, and Film
michael.austin@howard.edu

Review of applications will begin immediately and continue until the position is filled. To insure full consideration, please submit application materials before January 9, 2017.

For more information about Howard University's Cathy Hughes School of Communications and the Department of Media, Journalism, please visit our website: <http://communications.howard.edu/>

Founded in 1867, Howard University is a federally chartered, private, doctoral university, classified as a high research activity institution. With an enrollment of more than 10,000 students, its undergraduate, graduate, professional and joint degree programs span more than 120 areas of study within 13 schools and colleges. Howard is recognized by the United States Department of Education as one of the nation's HBCUs, or Historically Black College or University.

EEO/AA Policy

Howard University prohibits discrimination under Title VII of the Civil Rights Act of 1964, the Rehabilitation Act of 1973, the Americans with Disabilities Act, and the Code of The District of Columbia, including the following: discrimination based on handicap status or discrimination based on race, color, religion, gender, age, national origin, marital status, personal appearance, sexual orientation, family responsibilities, matriculation, or political affiliation.