

Howard University
Communication Sciences and Disorders
Clinical Educator Position

Description

The Cathy Hughes School of Communications at Howard University in Washington, D.C. seeks outstanding candidates for a full-time Clinical Educator. While all qualified candidates will be considered, preference will be given to candidates with expertise in neurogenic communication/swallowing disorders. The successful candidate will provide clinical supervision and teach clinical courses in the Department of Communication Sciences and Disorders. The candidate must demonstrate an interest in cultural and linguistic diversity relevant to teaching, research, and service. The appointment begins August 2025.

Overview

Founded in 1867, Howard University is a private, research university that is comprised of 13 schools and colleges. Howard is committed to preparing leaders for the global community and produces more on-campus African American Ph.D. recipients than any other university in the United States. The Department of Communication Sciences and Disorders offers a minor in speech-language pathology, the Master of Science degree in speech-language pathology and the Ph.D. in communication sciences. In keeping with the legacy of Howard University, the Department of Communication Sciences and Disorders has a nationally and internationally renowned faculty, and an outstanding reputation for addressing multicultural issues in speech-language pathology. The candidate must demonstrate understanding of and support for the mission of Howard University.

Qualifications

- Masters's degree or Doctoral degree in communication sciences and disorders or speech-language pathology
- ASHA Certification in Speech-Language Pathology (CCC-SLP)
- Licensure /Eligible for speech-language licensure in the District of Columbia Licensure in Speech-Language Pathology
- At minimum- five years of experience in clinical service delivery
- 3-5 years of experience with specialization in adult neurogenic communication disorders is preferred; however, all specializations will be considered
- Three years of clinical supervision experience

Principle Responsibilities:

- Teach practicum courses and other courses as assigned
- Supervision
 - provide student supervision of diagnostics and therapy in the Howard University Speech and Hearing Clinic
 - conduct weekly sessions with students to provide feedback on their clinical performance
 - monitor student performance through midterm and final evaluations
 - certify clock hours
- Assist clinic needs in:
 - marketing and public relations development
 - departmental recruitment
 - obtaining potential sites and/or clinical partnerships
- Other related responsibilities as assigned

Note: This position description should not be construed to imply that these requirements are the exclusive standards of the position. Incumbents will follow any other instructions, and perform any other related duties, as may be required. The university has the right to revise this position description at any time. This position description is not to be construed as a contract for employment.

Additional information about the Department and University can be found at <http://communications.howard.edu/>.

Application Process

Please submit in one pdf file:

- 1) Cover Letter
- 2) Current resume/vita (including e-mail address)
- 4) Names, phone, and emails of three professional references

Email completed applications to:

Robin Eury, Ph.D., CCC-SLP
Search Committee Chair
Clinic Director
Department of Communication Sciences and Disorders
School of Communications
Howard University
Washington, D.C. 20059
robin.eury@howard.edu

Review of applications will begin December 9, 2024

Howard University is committed to providing equal opportunity in employment as well as in its education programs and activities. To maintain a workplace in which all employees are treated with respect and decency, Howard University prohibits any discrimination or harassment based on race, color, religion, sex, national origin, age, disability, veteran status, sexual orientation, family status and responsibilities, personal appearance, political affiliation, marital status, gender identity, or expression, genetic information, matriculation, unemployed status, or any other classifications, activities or conditions protected by applicable law.

Staff and faculty EEO concerns should be directed to the Office of Human Resources at (202) 806-1280 or at eeo@howard.edu